

Cloud Gazing

The group sit and gaze at the clouds in the sky. The sky is very clear, only one cloud and some larger clouds to the north. They notice immediately that it was windy outside. They feel the wind in their hair and clothes. They also hold up leaves and watch them blow away, offering a gift to the wind.

The children watch as the clouds are being blown in the sky. The clouds change shape very quickly and are turning from one small cloud to a larger group of clouds. The sky changes drastically to house many clouds. The clouds are beginning to go to their beds as it is going to rain. The clouds are going to have a bad dream. The children also agree that one large cloud looks like a monster. Even those who walk by would look up and comment on the monster that is showing itself in the sky.

Here are the pictures of the sky as it change over a period of ten minutes.

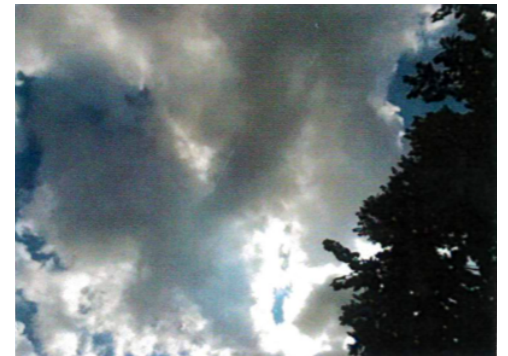

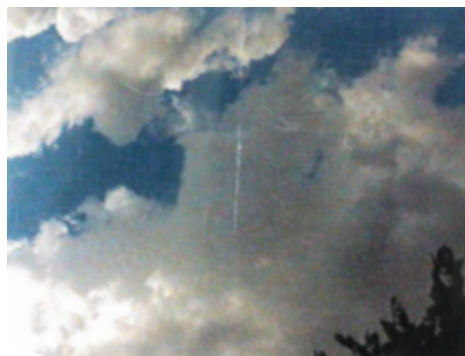

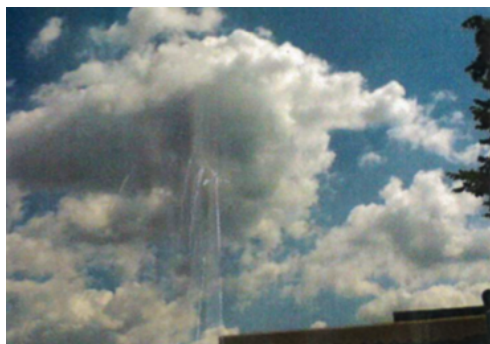

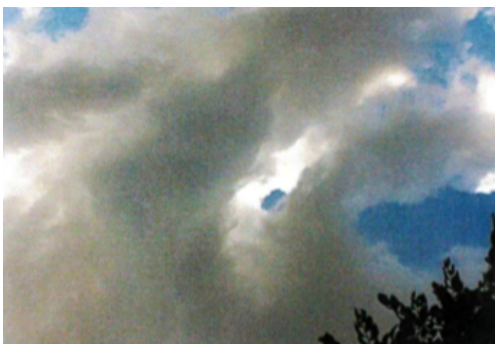

"The clouds are gonna slide down when they are sleeping. They are gonna go into the ocean because they like swimming. That's why the rain comes down." - Samantha

"It's windy here! Feel it! The white clouds are changing shapes. They're moving because the angels are playing and blowing the clouds around." - Samantha

"When the sun gets really sunny, then it will go away. Then it will rain." - Alex T.

"The big cloud is going to his big house. Very big clouds don't come home again because they let the rain out." - Blake

"The clouds are made of cotton candy." - Samantha

"Clouds are made of snowflakes." - Mattia

"I think it's gonna rain. Look at the clouds. The clouds are filled with water." - Gianluca

"The clouds are getting bigger and bigger. The sun is making them grow." - Logan

"The clouds are getting big. They were small before." - Alex R.

BLKAE

"The wind is moving the clouds so they go to bed. The bugs are gonna get into their bed if they don't close their door. When it's windy in cloud land then the rain comes down. they're changing colour too. look they are grey, it's gonna rain. They're going to bed and they are starting to have a bad dream!" - Blake

"The wind's moving them. They're going home." - Mattia
